Marbling (Ebru) Art

Marbling art is one of the oldest paper decoration arts. The word 'Ebre', meaning 'veined like vein' in Chagatai, one of the central Asian languages, is the first name of Ebru art.

The art that comes to Iran through the silk is named as 'Abru' (water face) or 'Ebre' (cloudy, cloud-like) here. Later, the name of this art, which came to Anatolia with the Turks, settled in our language as 'Ebru'. You can try this experience together with the masters who try to keep alive in Cappadocia the Ebru art, which is about to be forgotten.
